GIRL HAD A BABY STARE

Frances Hollender Swindled Many
New York Firms---Detectives Find Fifty Costly Gowns in Her Apartments.

New York, Sept. 27.—Posing as a daughter of Governor Foss of Massachusetts as wife of various wealthy men and acting other bold roles, a girl in her twenties swindled Boston and New York firms of several thousand dollars' worth of finery, according to information which the police declare the young woman gave today.
When she first fell into their hands, she told the police she was Frances Hollender, child of wealthy parents and "pupil" in a Baltimore convent. Her "baby stare" bespoke the role she played, but according to the alleged confession she was better acquainted with the reform school at Lancaster, Mass., than with the Baltimore convent, and had a string of half a dozen aliases.
The West Side police station looked like the dressing room of an opera house when the detectives spread out fifty expensive gowns of Fifth ave. modelling they had discovered at a well-known hotel where the girl had been staying. Upon the discovery of her great store of gowns she is alleged to have made her confession.
Only six months ago, she said she was released on probation from a term in the Lancaster reform school for the larceny from a Boston Jeweler of two diamond pendant which she secured by representing herself as one of the twin daughters of Governor Foss. She ran away from the probation officers, served as a nurse

EXCITEMENT IN LAWRENCE

Organizer Haywood Sent for in Connection with Strike Situation

Special to The Herald
Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 28.—Great excitement prevails in this city among the striking mill operatives and there is talk of a general strike.
The general impression however prevails that the majority of the striking operatives with possibly the exception of those of Italian birth will return to work on Monday. Organizer William D. Haywood of the I. W. W. has been summoned to Lawrence to endeavor to adjust matters.

PROGRESSIVES MAKE A TRADE

Will Throw Their Support to Felker for Governor in Return for Votes for Bass

The local correspondent of the Manchester Union comments as follows:
The political atmosphere is surcharged with energy. Following the example given by the Bull Moose advocates the supporters of William Howard Taft decided last night to get into the game. Their decision is to have a flag raising and a series of old fashioned political rallies.
Not alone the activities of the two parties and the suspicious slumbering of the democrats has awakened the political agitators. There has come to this city today a report on which the foundation of future activity will be laid. The report is that the progressives and the democrats have entered into mutual trade relations. According to this report the progressives have decided, to throw over strength to Samuel D.
Felker the governor and the democrats have promised to elect Robert P. Bass to the United States senate.
From the camp of the Bull Moose an authoritative denial of that part is made. In this statement it is said that the progressive leader suspicion-ed that such a rumor would be forthcoming when the battle grew warm; but the state will be carried by the Bull Moose for Churchill and that there is a strong probability that

THREE KILLED AT A RAILROAD CROSSING

Sad Ending of a Maine Automobile Party---All But One Were Studen at Hebron Academy

Norway, Me., Sept. 27.—Three members of an automobile party were killed and two seriously injured today when their car was hit by a passenger train on the Norway branch of the Grand Trunk railroad.
The Dead
MISS DOROTHY GROSE, East
Sumner.
MISS ELIZABETH FAIRCLOUTH, Richmond.
HARRY SMITH, South Paris.
The Injured.
William Walker, Castine, broken leg, broken arm and internal injuries.
Forrest Conant, Hebron, arm fractured and severe injuries about the head.
All the occupants of the automobile, except Harry Smith, who drove it, were students at Hebron academy.
The young people, who were each about 18 years old, had been invited by Conant to ride to South Paris in his car. Engine trouble developing, a visit was paid to the Smith garage, and the proprietor, Harry Smith, took the driver's seat and sent the car over the road toward Norway to try out the engine.
They reached Hicks's crossing on the Norway branch of the Grand Trunk when the locomotive struck them. According to Edmund Anderson, engineer of the train, the car was going along at top speed, while Smith the driver, was leaning over listening to the working of his engine. None of the occupants of the car saw the train in time to give warning to Smith and Engineer Anderson was unable to prevent the collision.
The automobile was demolished and the young people hurled many feet away. The body of Miss Grose was cut in two and that of Miss Fairclough also was frightfully mangled. Smith's body was found entangled in the wreckage of the machine.

REVIEWED FLEET OF WARPLANES

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The first review ever held of a complete aeroplane armada took place today at Villa Coubert, near Paris. No fewer than 72 French army flying machines, with their full complements of pilots and observers and the attached park of motor trucks bearing supplies there, passed in review before the French Minister of War, Alexandre Millerand.

There was great enthusiasm among the spectators as the airman saluted the minister of war.

At the close of the review, M. Millerand made a speech in which he dwelt on the Nation's determination to keep France in the forefront of aviation. He urged the officers to refrain from seeking publicity, which, he said, could only be harmful to the service.

An extraordinary spectacle was presented at the conclusion of the review when 20 aeroplanes rose in a flock, circled for a few moments over the parade ground and then sped off toward the east, to resume their stations on the German frontier. The remainder of the armada scattered in the course of the afternoon to various military posts.

BOOK PHYSICIAN AND CHIEF SCOUT BOOKWORM FOR BOY SCOUTS

He Helps Parents Select for the Boys the Books They Like Best and Will Do Them Most Good—He Tells the Scouts of the Best Books in Any Special Line—A New Department Is an Important Phase of the Scout Movement.

"The Consulting Book Physician" is a new phase of the Boy scout movement. He appears in a dual role and perhaps it might be better to term him "Chief Scout Bookworm" for he plans to be both confidential adviser to the parents and an aid to the boys in choosing books. In a word, he is the consulting book physician for the boy whose parents are in doubt as to what books their son should read; the scout who knows just what sort of books he wants, also has the Chief Scout Bookworm as adviser. But, in both cases, the aim of the adviser is the same. He wants the boys to get the best of the special kind of books they want. He would suggest the best kind of books of adventure, sport, fun, and the like.

Such a man is Franklin K. Matthews, recently installed in the National Headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America by James E. West, Chief Scout Executive. Both men have developed a splendid idea in connection with scoutcraft. They are backed by the leaders of the Scout movement, who believe they can be of no greater service than in helping boys get good books. Both believe the new department will be of tremendous help to parents and scouts. Matthews, who has spent years in developing his idea, sounds the keynote in his description of the plan: "Character culture by means of books boys read best." This idea admirably fits in with the Boy Scout purpose of developing boys by leading each to do thoroughly the things most worth while to them.

Matthews is at the disposal of all the boys and all the parents in the country who want suggestions as to good books and will answer all letters asking such advice. In the case of the parents he promises to be extremely helpful. The parents often find that their son's zest for stories of adventure leads him to dime novels and thrilling stories of adventure that have a bad influence on his acts and his character. They find that if they forbid the boys to read the books he does so in secret and the harm is continued. To such parents Matthews is a consulting book physician. He is ready to advise parents just what books such boys will want to read and which will be of great interest and great help to them. For instance, if the boy is fond of adventure he will furnish a list of books that are filled with daring deeds and which have the proper influence on the boys. Matthews feels that the greatest good can be done the boy, not by thwarting his eagerness for such books but by training his taste.

From a boy's point of view Matthews is also equipped to make suggestions for the most enjoyable line of reading possible. He has subdivided under various classes more than a thousand books according to heroes. If the boy is fond of any special line of heroes, he will find Matthews at his service ready to give his suggestion as to the best possible books. If he is fond of adventure, Matthews will tell him of the best books in that line. If he is fond of the men who have won stories of the men who have won success he will learn through Matthews of the best books. If he is fond of athletic sports he can get suggestions on the best heroes that an author ever described. So if his taste turns to chivalry, to humor to the field forest or mountain he will find Matthews the best bookworm that ever lived.

In preparing his list of books and selecting the ones that he feels the boys like best, he has gone over more than ten thousand books, considered them carefully from the viewpoint of the parent and of the boy and selected already more than eight hundred. It is the aim of the scout leaders to have all these books in the National Headquarters so that scouts and parents may see them and may receive suggestions.

"We feel," said Chief Scout Executive West, "that the Scout movement can be of no greater service than helping the parents and the boys to get the best books possible. Just as hitherto, the Scout movement has supervised the play of the boys helping them to get the most fun possible so the scout leaders now plan to help the boys to get the most enjoyable reading possible. If the boy wants a thrilling story he ought to see to it that he gets a good thrilling story that will have a helpful and a hurtful influence on his character."

What the Scouts Are Doing. Boy Scouts of Rochester were praised recently by the members of the Chamber of Commerce in that city for their work in cleaning, garbage and inflammable material that had been scattered about in different parts of the city.

The members of the Woman's Civic Club, Atkinson, Kansas, are delighted with the boy scouts. The boys of that city aided in the city. They got after the rubbish heaps in various parts of the city and made them disappear.

The Stopping Bishop.

Nat C. Goodwin was defending a clergyman who had gone wrong. "I don't condone his offense, mind you," said Mr. Goodwin. "But I was you to be sorry for him. Don't cackle and rejoice over his downfall. We are all human."

Then, in his musical and thrilling voice, the famous comedian resumed: "I know a very beautiful actress who dined one Sunday evening at a bishop's. After dinner the bishop, as he helped her to put on her cloak, stooped—stooped in more ways than one—and imprinted a kiss on her white shoulder."

"She turned and, looking at him deadpanfully, she said: 'Remember, sir, if I am an actress, I am a lady, too.'"

"The bishop made a low and humble bow. 'And will you please remember,' he said, 'if I am a bishop, I am also a man?'"

An Escape.

"It's useless to urge me to marry you." When I say no I mean no. "Always?" "Invariably." "And can nothing ever break your determination when once you make up your mind?" "Absolutely nothing." "Well, I wouldn't care to marry a girl like that, anyhow."—Boston Transcript.

PENGUIN OIL INDUSTRY

BIRDS ARE CAPTURED AND BRED FOR PROFIT.

Macquarie Island, Between Tasmania and the Antarctic Continent, is the Center of a Promising Commercial Enterprise.

What is probably the most southerly industry of the world is being carried on at Macquarie Island, about halfway between Tasmania and the Antarctic continent, in capture of penguins for their oil. Macquarie Island belongs to the state of Tasmania, and has an area of about 25,000 acres, being about twenty-five miles long and five miles wide. The island is leased by the Tasmania government to Joseph Hatch, who has established a penguin oil industry there. Recently meeting Mr. Hatch, I obtained the following particulars from him:

There are probably 80,000,000 penguins on the island, so that the stock to be drawn from seems almost limitless. There are also a large number of sea elephants about the shores of this island. The oil is obtained from the penguins by boiling the carcasses in digesters capable of dealing with 500 birds at a time. The tops of the digesters are fastened down and steam applied until about twenty-five pounds pressure is obtained. The steam is then turned off and water pumped into the bottoms of the digesters, this causing the oil to rise, when it is taken off the top by a tap.

The oil is placed in barrels and sold to binder twine makers in Australia and New Zealand. There is a good market for all the oil that is produced here, but the industry has met with several severe losses through wreck of ships attempting to visit the island. There is no harbor about the island, so that vessels have to lie about half a mile off the rocky coast, and all material has to be conveyed to and from the shore on rafts formed of masks. Owing to the roughness of the open roadstead, it is impossible to obtain insurance for vessels trading here.

Macquarie Island is about 750 miles southeast of Hobart. The island is barren, being covered only with tussocky grass. Whaling ships visiting there introduced rabbits and Macoris, which are now quite prolific. The Mawson Antarctic expedition from Australia has established a wireless station there, and daily messages are now being received at Hobart. It was the intention of this expedition to use Macquarie Island as a means of sending messages all the way from their base at Adelle land to Hobart, but unfortunately the wireless station established at Adelle land has been unable to communicate with Macquarie island, owing, it is supposed, to being too near the magnetic disturbances caused by the proximity of the south magnetic pole. The station at Macquarie island, however, has already proved of considerable value to shipping in Australian waters by giving warning of storms coming from the south.—Conrad Henry D. Baker, Hobart, Tasmania.

American "Aristocracy."

If gilt were only gold, or sugar and common sense, what a shining our society would be! If to wish money upon objects de verta, to wear the most costly dresses and fashions; to build houses 30 feet broad as if they were palaces; to furnish them with all the luxurious devices of a Persian genius; to give superb banquets at which your guests laugh and which make you miserable; to drive a fine carriage and ape European liveries and crests and coats of arms; to resent the friendly advances of your butler's wife and the aid of your butcher (you being yourself a cobbler's daughter); to talk such of the "old families" and of your aristocratic foreign friends; to despise labor; to prate of "good society"; to ravestry and parody, in every conceivable way, a society which we know only in books and by the superficial observation of foreign travel, which arises out of a social organization entirely unknown to us, and which is opposed to our fundamental and essential principles; if all these were fine, what a prodigiously fine society would ours be!—George William Curtis.

Drunken Monkeys.

According to a recent letter from the Congo region on the west coast of Africa, the monkeys there are fortunately fond of a kind of beer made by the natives, who use the beverage to capture their poor relations.

Having placed quantities of the beer where the monkeys can get it, the natives wait until their victims are in various degrees of inebriation, and when they then mingle with them the poor creatures are too much fuddled to recognize the difference between negro and ape.

When a negro takes the hand of one of them to lead him off, some other fond creature clings to the hand of the latter one, and another one to his hand; thus a single negro may sometimes be seen carrying off a string of staggering monkeys.

When secured the beer is administered in decreasing quantities, so that they may only gradually awaken to the sad results of their spree.

CEMENTA BARKING DOG
SAVED THEIR LIVESH. L. Brewster Found House on Fire
--Saved Baby But Badly Burned Himself.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 27—Awakened by the barking of his dog, H. L. Brewster, residing just across the Manchester line in the town of Hooksett, had barely time to save his wife and baby before the flames were in complete possession of his sleeping room.

Mr. Brewster's first thought was to get his wife to a place of safety, and this accomplished he thought of his child who was asleep in the room occupied by his parents. Three times the father attempted to reach the baby, but was driven back by the intense heat, but then, driven to desperation at the agonizing thought that the child was burning to death, he dashed into the red blast and finally emerged bearing the un-harmful child in his arms, but suffered terrible burns himself. The hair was burned entirely from his head, his eyebrows burned off and his face and arms blistered.

The fire was discovered early this morning and its origin is unknown. The barking of the dog, which saved the lives of the family, gave the first warning. Aid was called from Manchester, and the flying squadron, under the command of Capt. Frank H. Harwood, responded, and kept the flames confined to the premises, although the dwelling house was laid flat.

The building was owned by J. L. Brewster, janitor of Grace Episcopal Church, and was occupied by his son and the latter's family. There was but small insurance on the property.

SAME OLD BOARD.

The selectmen have not as yet turned over the $12,000 which he voted to raise to secure the trunk line through the Village, Harbor and Beach. The reason given is that there is no assurance that the trunk line will go through the places named.

Commissioner Hardison asked for bids on about two miles of road, starting from the end of the new piece of road at the Harbor and going towards York Beach. The cost for this amounts to about $21,000. As soon as he had settled on the contractor for the work, he called upon the selectmen for the appropriation York Corner end and come straight down. On the other hand it is a fact that the road from Norwood farms across Long Beach is the worst strip in this town today, and it was evidently Mr. Hardison's idea to fix up the worst places first. He says there is no more available money in sight at present, and evidently intends to make the best of what he has to hand.

The fixing of two miles across Long Beach would be a fine piece of road making, and would go a long way towards removing a wretched piece of road. It would also be a start toward an ultimate fine system of highways within the town.

There has been some talk of an injunction being issued against the town's paying over the money, but the selectmen do not believe that any such action is anticipated. In talking to the Transcript Henry Bragdon stated that he was perfectly willing to pay over the money, but they wanted to be absolutely sure of what they were doing.—York Transcript.

WAS IT ELDER?

A man by the name of Munsey, whose home is in Portsmouth, and who has been employed in the sewer construction here, was partially buried in a ditch Saturday forenoon, by the bank caving in. He was soon exhumed, but has been unable to work since, having received injuries to his head and side.—Newmarket Advertiser.

REPUBLICANS HAVE MAJORITY ON JOINT BALLOT

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 27—The official tabulation of the vote in the state election for state auditor in the 14th congressional district, and the makeup of the new legislature were announced today.

The senate will stand 21 Republicans and 10 Democrats and the house 78 Republicans and 73 Democrats, or a majority of 16 for the Republicans on a joint ballot for United States senator, Ex-Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh was endorsed for senator by the Republicans last June.

The official vote in the four congressional districts was: First, Hinde (Rep.) 17,635; O'Brien (Dem.) 15,559; 2d, McGillicuddy (Dem.) 13,077; Skelton 16,796; 3d, Goodwin (Rep.) 17,221; Gould (Dem.) 16,512; 4th, Charnsey (Rep.) 20,198; Mullen (Dem.) 16,725.

The vote for auditor was: Callahan (Rep.) 71,926; Stevens (Dem.) 60,895.

IN BRIEF.

New York, Sept. 27.—In the thirteen years since the city of Greater New York was formed, according to statistics compiled by the department of health, the death rate from tuberculosis was reduced from 22.5 for each 10,000 of population to 17.6. Of the 100,000 patients treated in the city's free tuberculosis clinics last year more than one-third were Hebrews. Next in order came Italians and Austrians. The reports show an increased frequency of the disease among bankers, barbers, carpenters and cigar makers.

Boston, Sept. 27.—Watches, shoes and textile fabrics today claimed the attention of the delegates to the international congress of chambers of commerce. The parliamentary sessions of the congress closed yesterday, and until the visitors leave Boston, on Monday, for a trip over the eastern section of the United States, their time will be spent in visiting industrial establishments near Boston.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—Two boys, aspiring for cup honors in their class, middleweight, Willie Lewis of New York and Tommy Cavanagh of Cleveland, were matched last night for 15 rounds before the Tuxedo club here, on Oct. 8. They are to fight at 155 pounds.

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—One of the horses entered in the free-for-all pace of the grand circuit races will not go today. The Bel, with a record of 2:02 1-4, died last night, of lung fever. The Bel was considered good for second money in the race today, by Independence Day, with a record of 2:01 1-2, and Evelyn W., who has gone in 2:01 3-4, have the best records of the horses in the free-for-all pace billed for this afternoon.

New Orleans, Sept. 27.—When Theodore Roosevelt arrived here this forenoon he was escorted by a committee of local Progressive leaders to his hotel, and thence taken on an automobile trip about the city. This afternoon the colonel will speak at the Wiltner Garden. Tonight he will leave for Montgomery, Ala. The long-continued speechmaking began to tell on Colonel Roosevelt yesterday, in Tennessee, with the raw weather as an aggravating factor, and it is planned for him to have some rest between the time of his address this afternoon and the departure of his train for Montgomery.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 27.—John

E. Hedges of New York was nominated as Republican candidate of New York today. Three ballots were taken. Hedges led from the first, and when the third ballot showed him steadily gaining strength the delegates flocked to him so fast that the tally clerk could not keep the record. Before the vote could be announced the motion to make the nomination unanimous was put and carried with a roar of enthusiasm.

James W. Windworth, Jr., was nominated for lieutenant-governor.

Constantinople, Sept. 27.—The Balkan agitation has its center of gravity in Sofia, in the opinion of the Turkish foreign minister. In the course of an interview today, he said: "I have no reason to doubt the peaceful intentions of the Bulgarian cabinet, and while Bulgaria remains peaceful the other Balkan states will doubtless do likewise."

CONGRESS ASKED FOR
$35,000,000 TO BUILD LEVEES

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—An appropriation of $35,000,000 in five equal annual installments is asked of Congress for the completion of a levee system along the Mississippi river in resolutions adopted by the Interstate Levee Association, which concluded its annual convention here Thursday.

The federal government also is asked to exercise a certain supervision over the entire system of levees.

The opinion of Colonel Roosevelt, who addressed the convention in the morning, that flood water conservation by reservoir and reforestation would strengthen the levee system and control the floods in the lower valley, was challenged later in the day by Col. Melb. Townsend, president of the Mississippi river commission.

FORCE OF 800 MARINES
SAILED FOR SAN DOMINGO

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—The transport Prairie with eight hundred marines on board left the Philadelphia Navy Yard at noon today, for Santo Domingo, to look after American interests. The marines were recruited from the several navy yards along the Atlantic Coast, the last detachment to go aboard the ship coming from New York. Despite the wet weather there was a good-sized crowd at the yard to see the Prairie sail away.

OFFICIAL VISITATION.

On Wednesday evening Grand Mishewka Chauncey B. Hoyt of this city made an official visitation to Choconna Tribe, I. O. R. M., at Farmington. Following the routine work, a repast of corn and venison was served.

GO TO MANCHESTER.

The P. A. C. baseball team will go to Manchester today where they will make an official visitation to the annual cutting of the Amoskeag employees.

Notes of Interest to Our Readers.

To prove that "BLOODINE" will cure Cataract every reader of this paper can have a positive guarantee. If there is any doubt in your mind as to the power of "BLOODINE" to cure all Cataractal Troubles the remarkable offer made by the Tilton Drug Company should expel that doubt. They give you a personal guarantee with every 50 cent bottle of "BLOODINE" they sell to refund the money unless it gives satisfaction. They take all the risks of cure, and no reader of this paper can afford to suffer longer with Cataract when an offer like this is made.

Third-Termers' Convention.

In all the speechifying at the state convention of the third-term party supporters at Concord, Thursday, no justification for the formation of a new political party by those who have been honored by or been active in the Republican party here was advanced. The sufficient reason for it is no such justification can be made. The logic of the addresses was in the other direction. For instance, Governor Bass and Mr. Clough both referred to the earnest efforts that had been made here in recent years for progressive legislation and admitted that all that had been attempted had been finally achieved without impairing party success. They did suggest that some of those who had early opposed still held legislative positions, but if still hostile at heart, they are perforce in submissive majority.

The spirit manifested by the chief actors in the event was that of the crusade as they termed their movement, rather than of hopefulness of any immediate triumph. Between the lines, as the saying is, the manifest determination was more for efforts against any success of the party which they have deserted rather than for their own success. While Governor Johnson gleefully made the prediction that President Taft would not be given the electoral vote of a single state, he did not claim any more for the head of the ticket upon which his name appears.

The platform presented contains more words than any ever adopted by any other party in the history of the state and perhaps in the history of the country. It was plainly constructed with the view of enticing voters of every condition not irrevocably fixed in their allegiance to some other party. Since the directors of the party have been so prominent in the anti-railroad corporation attitude, and so denunciatory of the railroad in politics, with any other aggregation, it would be surprising that they should be the first to virtually bring railroads back into politics, by their strong pronouncement in favor of the Grand Trunk, and just when the people of the state were justly congratulating themselves that railroad corporations had been effectively and forever driven out of politics in New Hampshire.—Manchester Mirror.

Don't Join the Traitors.

Every republican in the city who makes up his mind to join the "Third Term Party" delivers a blow in favor of the democratic candidates and against the best interests of the Portsmouth Navy Yard. The young men should not follow blindly the defeated "sore heads" who are simply looking for revenge. Call to mind the records of the "Copperheads," "Greenbackers," etc. Either vote the democratic ticket or the republican ticket. Don't be a party to the scheme to injure Portsmouth. Some of the followers when they stop and think will march into the line of the true progressive party headed by William H. Taft. Whatever our young men do they should not follow the lead of traitors. The Portsmouth Navy Yard has been built up by the republican party and in November either Woodrow Wilson or William H. Taft will be elected president. Which do you prefer?

Bossing Among New Hampshire Progressives.

Instead of letting the individual Progressives select their candidates for governor by some kind of a preferential vote, a committee has named the candidate—Mr. Winston Churchill—a la the old cut and dried plan which they have so vigorously denounced in times past. Let the people rule.—Somersworth Free Press.

One Was an Awful Dose.

Winston Churchill as a candidate for governor, supported by Robert Perkins Bass, George Rublee, and other members of the millionaire bunch, will doubtless add to the gaiety of the campaign, but we venture to predict that New Hampshire's first experiment in elevating one of her wealthy summer residents to the governor's chair will be good and plenty for some time to come.—Laconia Democrat.

Cold Shoulder to Bass.

The young man who walked through the lobby of the Eagle hotel Monday evening, going from the dining room to the front door, while a throng of republican politicians was assembled there, but was not spoken to by anyone, was Governor Bass. The stand-patters gave his excellency what is known as the "cold shoulder," and the "human earthquake" did not linger in their midst. He climbed into his automobile and left for Peterborough over a dark road.—Patriot.

A Change in the Ballot.

New Hampshire voters will find a change in the so-called Australian ballot when they arrive at the polling place next November as under a law passed at the last session of the general court, the device for marking a cross at the head of the party ticket and thereby voting the entire straight down from the presidential electors to inspectors of checklists, has been done away with, and in future voters will have to make a cross opposite the name of every candidate on the ticket for whom they wish to express their preference. Of course, the presidential electors can all be voted for by one mark as they will be in a group, but it will require a separate cross for governor, councilor, congressman, senator each county officer, each representative and each town or ward officer. In addition to making a separate mark for each of these candidates, the voters will also have an opportunity to mark their approval for disapproval of the twelve constitutional amendments, submitted by June 1. It is apparent that it will require much more time for the average voter to mark his ballot than in years past and it will probably require much more time for the election officers to tabulate the results under the new method of voting.—Laconia Democrat.

Bass, the New Hampshire Bull Moos-ers and the Direct Primary.

Governor Bass and his fellow Progressives insisted that a direct primary law would cure about all the ills which the body politic was afflicted with by the convention system of choosing candidates for office.
With much satisfaction they claimed the paternity of the primary law of this state. Instead of participating in the recent primary and without letting the real attitude as to the republican party be publicly inno-cented, some progressives were nominated as republicans and will expect the party to vote for them in November. After the primary Governor Bass and his fellow progressive third term advocates announced their departure from the republican party and their alliance with the new party. They announce however, that they will vote for those progressive candidates, satisfactory to them who received nomination as republicans, while the other republican nominees will be opposed by progressive candidates placed on the ticket by petition. It seems as though this policy is not only inconsistent but unfair.
If the third term progressives are going to use the primary in part and reject it in part, they are dis-

Concord, N. H., Sept. 27.—The hearing before the State Board of Tax Commissioners involving the valuation of timberlands in the towns of Clarksville and Pittsburg in which the timber interests of the state and the Boston & Maine Railroad have been introducing testimony, was closed today.

The morning session was devoted to the introduction of testimony by General Edwin G. Eastman in behalf of the Connecticut Valley Lumber Company. This testimony was resigned to show that the timber in the northern towns of the state was so located that it would cost very heavily to market it and therefore was not as valuable as contended by the Boston & Maine.

After the close of this part of the case, Col. S. S. Jewett, attorney for the railroad called Thomas H. Van-Dyke, a director of the Connecticut Valley Lumber Co. to the stand. Mr.
VanDyke, although present during the entire hearing which has lasted several days, has not been put upon the stand in behalf of his company.
Colonel Jewett produced a copy of a circular issued by Hornblower & Weeks, bankers of Boston, for the purpose of floating an issue of three millions of dollars of bonds. Mr. Jewett read the circular to the commission including the letter of John T.

Amey, now a member of the commission, in which he stated that there were 533,000,000 feet of timber on the Androscoggin slope in the towns of Pittsburg and Clarksville valued at $4,265,000.

In reply to the questioning of Col.
Jewett, Mr. VanDyke admitted that he believed the statement of Mr.
Amey was true in 1908 when it was made for the purpose of selling the bonds of the company. He further stated that no timber had been cut from this section since that time. Mr.
Amey's figures as to the valuation of this timber were made on a basis of $8 per thousand. During the progress of the hearing Mr. Amey made the following statement as to this circular:

"I will state that this circular was issued by Hornblower & Weeks for the purpose of selling the bonds of the Connecticut Valley Lumber Company; that I was requested to send them a letter estimating the value of the timber on their land, the quantity and value, $8 a thousand was suggested as the value of the timber on the Androscoggin slope, I did not say it was worth $8; I said that figured at as low as a price as $8, it would amount to so much money, I avoided saying it was worth. I admit I gave the impression or said what might allow them to form the impression that it was worth $8. I did not say it was worth $8, but that is the way that circular came about."

Mr. Amey's estimate of the value of this timber had previously been placed before the commission in the form of a deposition of Mr. Amey taken for use before the referees in the recent railroad tax appeals which was compromised by the last legislature. The railroad expert figured the timber on the Androscoggin slope in Pittsburg and Clarksville at a total value of three million dollars, figuring it at $6 per thousand. The total valuation of that town of Pittsburg as assessed by the selectmen for the present year is approximately $1,700,- 000, while the total assessed valuation of Clarksville is under $400,000.

This afternoon Attorney-General James P. Tuttle suggested to the commission that they go upon this tract of land and make a personal examination. Col. S. S. Jewett closed the case for the railroad and former Attorney-General Eastman argued the case for the timber interests.

Following this matter, Hon. Oliver E. Branch of Manchester, representing the Boston & Maine, appeared in behalf of the railroad on another phase of railroad taxation. In finding the value of the railroad within the state of New Hampshire for purposes of taxation the tax commission apportions the value to New Hampshire upon a straight mileage basis.
Mr. Branch took the position that the mileage in Massachusetts with its more valuable terminals is much more valuable than that in New Hampshire and that this phase ought to be taken into consideration by the commission in arriving at the value of that part of the system located within the limits of this state.

PALMER--SHANNON

The wedding of Miss Mabel E. Shannon daughter of Mrs. Quigley and the late Woodbury Shannon, formerly of this city, and Harry Palmer, occurred on Thursday at the home of the bride 22 Onida street, Lynn, Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. E. Harriman and following the same the reception was attended by a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

Miss Anna Moore of Peabody was the maid of honor and Irwin W. Palmer brother of the groom was best man.

The ushers were William E. Shannon, brother of the bride; William Harriman, and Albert S. Fernald of Portsmouth. During the reception a luncheon was served in the dining room of the home, which had been artistically decorated.

After a wedding tour of some length Mr. and Mrs. Palmer will reside at 102 Williams avenue, Lynn. The bride was a school teacher in the school department of Lynn and a popular young lady.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are the Voices of Portsmouth People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are public praising Dean's Kidney and bladder pills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home paper. Portsmouth people are in this chorus. Here's a Portsmouth case.

James Pickles, 11 Burket St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I was afflicted with kidney disease for several years and was unable to find relief from dull pains in my back until a few months ago when I procured Dean's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Pharmacy. Often I had such acute twinges across my loins that I could scarcely move. The kidney secretions contained sediment and were so frequent in passage that I was obliged to arise several times at night. Dean's Kidney Pills helped me from the first and continued use entirely cured me."

FEEL BULLY? TAKE CASCARETS TONIGHT

A 10 Cent Box Keeps Your Liver, Stomach and Bowels Clean for Months

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels clean and regular for months.

THE OPENING NIGHT.

The Italian Band Gives a Concert at North End.

The Italian band was busy on Friday evening and with 20 men or more under the leadership of Conductor Romeo Lizio gave a concert from 8.30 to 10.30 p. m. at the new restaurant of Charles Marotta on Market street. The occasion was the opening night and Marotta furnished plenty of refreshments and the band plenty of music. There were few intermissions for the musicians from the starting concert number until the last selection.

FLED BEFORE FLAMES

RUSSIAN PEASANTS SUFFERERS FROM PRAIRIE FIRES.

Huge Areas Devastated and Human Lives, as Well as Live Stock, Sacrificed—Whole Settlements Wiped Out.

Midsummer in Russia has been ushered in by a great epidemic of fires on the steppes.

The intense dryness of the season has spread the fires over a huge area. One of the most dreadful fires that the Russian steppes have ever seen raged a few days ago in the Province of Turgai, on the other side of the Ural mountains, and to the northeast of the Caspian. On these steppes vast areas of grass stretch to the horizon, raised only by shrubs of the wild cherry and dwarf almond on the hillsides or by clumps of wormwood when the soil is clayey. Herds of cattle and horses graze on the plains.

It was early in the morning when mighty clouds of smoke suddenly rose up from the steppes, a sure sign to the inhabitants that a fire was in progress. So appalling was the speed with which the fire rolled over the dry and yellow grass that the peasants had quickly to concert measures for saving just their own lives from destruction. Feverish activity prevailed in all the villages until the tongues of flame which came on nearer and nearer with uncanny swiftness appeared on the horizon.

Spent forward by the rushing wind, sparks from the conflagration kindled in advance another fire, which in a short time enveloped 30,000 acres of grazing ground. Swifter and swifter before the wind dashed on the wall of fire waves. Enormous pillars of flame shot up into the air. The suction was so strong that slabs of turf and burning branches were hurled up into the air and thrown far away.

Men and cattle were hard put to it to save themselves. Their least danger was of being scorched by the fiery breath which swept on ahead of the flames. Women and children who sank helpless to the ground were dragged along by the other villagers, for only hasty flight was now of any avail. But even this would not have saved them had not a lake lain in their path, into which they all rushed, wading in as far as they could without drowning.

Imagine, then, hundreds of persons standing in the waters up to their shoulders, while all round them masses of flame ran along the banks and sent out flickering tongues over the water in their direction, baffled in their thirst for victims.

Some of the inhabitants of the villages on the steppes directly they saw the fire advancing set to work to burn large areas, and on these areas they collected all their cattle and household goods. At last a heavy shower came and extinguished the prairie fire. Many perished in the flames or were stifled by the smoke, five in one village, three in another, and so on. Besides this there was great destruction of livestock, large and small. Hamburger Nachrichten.

A Parisian novelty is a picture book of animals, and each animal utters its own characteristic cry. The pictures represent the most familiar domestic animals, and each animal speaks its own language. To cause it to break silence nothing is necessary but to pull a little string at the edge of the book.

In the books are to be seen a rooster, a cow, a lamb, little birds in their nest, a donkey, a cuckoo, a goat. On the last page are children who are welcoming their parents. By pulling the string at the right page the cry of any particular creature is elicited. The listener hears the donkey hee-haw and the rooster crow. The crowing is well imitated. The string is pulled again and the lamb bleats, the birds twitter, the cuckoo sings, the cow moos, or the little children call out "papa" and "mamma."

These interesting results are obtained simply by the aid of small bellows placed in a box hidden in the book. When the string is pulled the air enters the corresponding bellows and is thence expelled by a spring. The air makes its exit through a special tube appropriate for each cry, and at the same time the bellows meets with obstacles placed on a wire.

Experimenting With Death.

There are few men, perhaps, who have not at hundred times in the course of life, felt a curiosity to know what their sensations would be if they were compelled to lay life down. The very impossibility, in ordinary cases, of obtaining any approach to this knowledge, is an incessant spur pressing on the fancy in its endeavors to arrive at it. Thus poets and painters have ever made the estate of a man condemned to die one of their themes of comment or description. Potheys and painters bang themselves every other day, conclusively—missing their arrangement for slipping the knot half way—out of a seeming instinct to try the secrets of that fate, which—less in jest than earnest—they feel an inward monition may become their own. And thousands of men, in early life, are uneasy until they have mounted a bench or fought a duel merely because they wish to know, experimentally, that their nerves are capable of carrying them through that peculiar ordeal.—From "Le Revenant."

ANCIENT ROMAN WINES

NEARLY FIFTY KINDS KNOWN TO ITS INHABITANTS.

Several Varieties, Made With Salt Water, Were Considered Medicinal, and Not Intoxicating—Murmured Given Those to Be Tortured.

Nearly 50 kinds of wine were known to the ancient Romans, including several varieties used for medicinal purposes. Falernian was a home wine, resembling the modern Madeira, and was not commonly used until it was ten years old. After it was twenty years old it affected the drinker unfavorably, causing headache.

Other wines were foreign. China, also called Arrianus, of which there were three varieties—austrere, sweet and intermediate—and the Lesbian, considered to be the diuretic, were of this kind. Some wines were named after their color, as white, dark, and red. The white were thought to be the thinnest and least heating; the dark colored and sweet the most nourishing; the red the most heating.

Certain wines named Myndian, Hall-carnesian, Rhodian and Coan, were made with salt water. They were considered not to be intoxicating, but to promote digestion. Two wines, Chidian and Adrian, were also medicinal. Mustum was a term applied to wine newly made, or the fresh juice of the grape. Populeum was the juice which runs from the grapes, without pressing. Mulsum was a mixture of wine and honey. Sapa was mustum boiled down to a third. Defrutum was mustum reduced to half and Cereum was the same reduced to a third. Passum was a sweet wine, prepared from grapes that had been dried in the sun. Passum croticum, also a sweet wine, is believed to have been the same as the wine which our forefathers called Malmsey, the wine in which the duke of Clarence, brother of Edward IV., elected to be drowned.

A wine called Murrhina has a curious history. The Greeks had a wine of this kind which consisted of pure wine perfumed with odorous substances. The Romans had a wine similarly named, which is supposed to have been wine mingled with myrrh. It was administered to those who were about to suffer torture in order to intoxicate them, and to remove the sense of suffering.

These ancient wines retained their place probably to the end of the Middle Ages, but there is no reliable evidence bearing upon this point. Very slowly the names, rather than the wines, changed generally. The ancient wines, even those in use in Shakespeare's time, seem to have been less charged with alcohol than the wines of the present day. Even Malmsey, the strongest of them, contained only about 12 per cent. of spirit, and Sack a little more than half that amount.—The Ideal Grocer.

Story of an African Romance.

A romance born under unusual circumstances culminated at the altar, in the marriage of Miss Olive MacLeod and Charles Lindsey Temple, chief secretary of Northern Nigeria. It was while returning from Wadai, in the heart of Central Africa, whither she had journeyed to place a cross on the grave of her former fiancé, Lieut. Boyd Alexander, a noted explorer, who was murdered at that place by natives in 1910, that she met and was successfully wooed by her future husband. During this trip Miss MacLeod covered nearly 4,000 miles, through regions where the natives although nominally friendly, are uncertain in temper. For four months she was in territory hitherto unknown to British travelers, and for six months in districts where a white woman had never before been seen. A woman friend and her husband were the only other white members of the expedition. They were in almost constant danger lest the natives turn against them, and on one occasion one of the wilder tribes seriously debated the proposition of taking the women prisoners. The party managed to escape while the party was going on.

Aviation and Insurance

Aviation risks have been accepted by certain German life and accident insurance companies, but the results have not been encouraging. The conditions attending such insurance have, consequently, been made more recraft lighter than air have recently been increased, while in the case of craft heavier than air insurance against death seems to have been declined altogether.

The Rates for Aeronauts who use

A Swiss insurance company doing accident business in Germany has recently abandoned policies for airman and air craft altogether, for even after fastening its original rates business was found to be unprofitable. One company which had early ventured into aviation insurance against death recently paid a claim of nearly $12,000 in addition to a policy covering the aeroplane, which was destroyed.

MANDARIN AND HIS BUTTON

He Must Be Studious and Able to Earn Insignia of the Higher Grades.

It will be interesting to note what effect the Chinese revolutionary movement will have upon the status of the mandarin, who with his gorgeous dress, the glittering button signifying his rank and his combined powers of authority has always been an extraordinary figure to the western eye. Heretofore, however, the mandarins' life has not been all ease and glitter, nor has their power been unlimited.

It has always been the custom to promote them from the ranks of the people after the passing of severe examinations. A man may win the rank of mandarin of the ninth, or lowest rank, continuing the while at his trade, say of mason or carpenter. Above that rank he may become an official, but is allowed only the salary that he may earn at his trade.

As a matter of fact, the mandarins generally enrich themselves from the fees which they exact from suitors, but in accordance with the doctrine of the Emperor Kang-hi, the mandarins are supposed to make the bringing of lawsuits as unprofitable as possible. Kang-hi said:

"It is well that all men should have a wholesome fear of the tribunals. I desire that all having recourse to the magistrates may be treated mercifully, so that all may dread to appear before them. Let all good citizens settle their disputes like brothers, submitting to the arbitration of the elders and mayors of the commune. Let all obstinate suitors be crushed by the judges, for such is their desert."

When the student has won the silver button, the mark of the ninth grade of mandarins, he may persevere and make himself by hard study and ability, a mandarin of the first class. As he passes up the scale his insignia are as follows: Ninth and eighth classes of mandarin, a button of silver; seventh class, a gold button; sixth class, a bone button; fifth class, a crystal button; fourth class, a dark blue button; third class, a light blue button; second class, a light coral button; first class, a dark coral button. This button is about the size of a pigeon's egg and is worn on the top of the hat on ceremonial occasions.—Harper's Weekly.

Hiram Decidedly Old.

The second oldest schooner in the United States is now tied up at Red Beach, nine miles from Calais, her home port. She is the Hiram, and she was built 12 years later than the famous old Polly. Her keel was laid down at Biddeford in 1819, and since she was launched the little two-masted schooner has led a strenuous life up and down the Atlantic coast. Although the vessel has been repaired time and again, she still has her original keel and bottom, which are in good condition. She is 69.5 feet long, has a gross tonnage of 67 tons, and carried a crew of three. For many years after she was built the Hiram was commanded by members of the Cook family, of that city, and she is now owned by Elmer McDonald of Red Beach.

Japanese Using More Milk.

The habit of using milk has greatly increased among the Japanese in recent years, yet the average amount of milk consumed by each Japanese is still far below that of the European or American. The total amount of milk produced in Tokio Prefecture during the year 1911 was 36,635 koku and the total amount of daily consumption was over 127 koku, which means that each person consumed on an average, only 0.1 g a day, which will hardly bear comparison with the four or five g. of the average daily consumption per person in Europe or America.—Tokio Asahi.

BLIND CHARLEY GOES AWAY

Beggar Takes a Whirl at Coney Island and Then Doesn't Dare Return to His Old Corner.

New York.—Wall street has just lost one of its most interesting and best known characters, and at the same time is losing a flourishing business. The character in question is known as Blind Charley, and he has accumulated a fortune of more than $100,000.

Kind-hearted brokers, fresh from a successful turn in the market, have been cheerful contributors to the battered tin cup of the blind beggar, and so generous have been gifts that there is apparently no reason why Blind Charley should not have run his fortune up to the half-million mark if he had only used a bit of discretion. The trouble began when Charley started out for Coney Island last week, all dressed up. He looked about as much like a beggar as Andrew Carnegie or John D. Rockefeller might look if they ever took it in their heads to give Coney a whirl. The little boy who led the way had on a new suit and a bright silk necktie.

They were out for a good time and they didn't let expense stand in the way. They rode on the merry-go-round, bumped the bumps and looped the loop, and occasionally Charley would break a five-dollar bill to purchase a bag of peanuts. Naturally they attracted a good deal of attention. People were interested at the sight of an old blind man and a little boy doing Coney together.

One man who on more than one occasion had dropped a dime in Charley's battered cup, was so interested that he notified the police. As a result the fact was brought to light that Charley was wealthier than many of those who had contributed to his fortune, and consequently he has disappeared from his wonted stand. While Wall street will miss his queer personality, the sting is made still sharper by the realization of many brokers that they let a man with $100,000 in cold cash invade their stronghold without ever making a single investment in the securities in which they dealt.

MAN 70 YEARS YOUNG SKATES

Gay Old Boy Just Whirls Around to Get an Appetite—Gets It, Too.

Tacoma.—Clerks and others arriving late at their offices have recently been giving an excuse that they have been watching an old man skate.

As they reach a certain street they hear the whirl of rollers on the asphalt paving. Rounding a corner, they see a little old man, with long chin whiskers, sunken eyesockets, but very bright eyes, speeding along at a reckless rate. His ball-bearing rollers he manipulates with the dexterity of a fourteen-year-old veteran.

A reporter approached the septuagenarian skater and was received with suspicion. "Don't get it into your head that I'm doing this to revive ice-skating," he said. "This is a very healthy way of spending spare time. I get out here in the early morning and whirl around and have the finest appetite for breakfast you ever saw. And I'm nearly seventy."

"I used to skate a lot in Holland. The doctor says it's a great thing for me, and I know it is, so that's all there is to it."

BETTER EYES, BETTER MAN

California Prison Warden Has a Theory Along the Lines of Reform.

Sacramento, Cal.—To carry out his theory that steps for all-around betterment of prisoners should be taken, beginning with physical conditions, Warden Johnston of Folsom penitentiary has had thirty-two prisoners examined by eye and ear specialists. Jake Oppenheimer, "the Hyena," under sentence of death, will be fitted with a pair of glasses. The warden said that Oppenheimer was pleased with the result, as his vision had been much impaired in the preparation of a book he is now writing, entitled "The Thoughts of a Condemned Man." Another prisoner will be fitted with an artificial eye, on the theory that any improvement in a prisoner's looks will lighten his self-respect and make him more amenable to efforts for his reform.

BOY LOVER HANGS HIMSELF

Hoboken (N. J.) Youngster Couldn't Give Up Infatuation for Grown-up Cousin.

Hoboken, N. J.—Infatuation for his pretty twenty-year-old cousin, Mary Bussanich, is believed to have led James Bussanich, twelve years old, to commit suicide by hanging in his father's carpenter shop. The young woman herself found the body when she was searching for the boy to take him home. For some time the boy had displayed a violent liking for the cousin, and no amount of talking would cause him to refrain from a display of his infatuation, which she tried to repel.

Naval Militia to be Called In

Two additional officers will be stationed at the naval aviation station at Annapolis shortly. The corps consists of four men who are using three hydro-aeroplanes. As soon as the personnel of the station is increased, two more machines will be added.
Besides 1,539 officers and 28,000 enlisted men to be on vessels participating in the naval review at New York there will be 193 officers and 30 men of the naval militia of various states filling vacancies on board essels of the fleet.

Appointed Progress Man.

Herman P. Windrich, machinist in the Hull Division, has been appointed shop progress man for all Hull division shops.

Gets Appointment at Washington.

The many friends of Mr. John C. P.
Kraft, draftsman in the Hull Division office at the navy yard, will be glad to learn that he has received transfer to the Bureau of Construction and Repair, at Washington. Mr.
Kraft has made a host of friends during his short stay here, and he will be greatly missed. As his home is in Washington Mr. Kraft is glad of the opportunity to return there, as he will always have a warm spot in his heart for Portsmouth and the numerous friends he left behind.

Orders to Move Gunboats Ready.

Orders have been received at the yard to have the gunboats Eagle and Adolph ready by Oct. 12. Both vessels are likely to sail on Oct. 15 to sume the coast survey in Cuban waters.

Only Forty Men Left.

The sending of the marine battalion from this yard to San Domingo, leaves about forty men at the yard tracks.

Will Try it Again.

The civilians who were engaged in the coast survey in Southern waters a year are preparing for another inter-off the Cuban coast and will on the U. S. S. Paducah next month.

Pipefitter Injures Foot.

F. L. Creutz a pipefitter residing in Kittery is suffering from a severe injury to his left foot sustained while moving braces from the flagstaff of the U. S. S. Nashville. After treatment at the yard dispensary he was sent to his home in Kittery.

Warrant Carpenter.

Papers of 61 candidates for warrant carpenter in the navy were submitted to a board at the navy department this week. These candidates took the examination at Norfolk and on the Astute station.

Let's Hope It Benefits Portsmouth.

A conference of the commandants of all the navy yards will be held at the Navy Department on Oct. 21. The commandants of the Pacific coast as well as the Eastern yards will attend.It is planned to have two conferences a year of all the commandants. These conferences have become one of the important features of co-ordinating the work in the navy yards. It has been found that much can be saved and more effective work done by getting the commandants of the navy yards together at stated periods.

I WONDER

I wonder what that Penhallow street wine clerk will do with those two bushels of mushrooms that he claims he gathered in an hour?If he is going to corner the market on this edible plant?If he won't have to furnish a photograph of them to convince his friends that he really had the goods.How long one of the leading men of the once leading men of the Frank of the Franklin Pierce association has been making speeches at the Bull Moose gatherings?How those three young ladies like the turnstile in the postoffice vestibule?If they did not have their troubles when the trio attempted to get through together by crowding into one stall?Why a woman is certain to jump off a moving train the wrong way?If there will be any skating this year on the miniature ponds of Congress street?If after all these series of base ball games by Dover, Portsmouth, Rochester and Concord and other cities the state championship has been decided?If anybody can tell us just what the total receipts from base ball games on the play ground this season?If the dealers in scandal have not been some busy of late?If the employee of the street department who is a hero in the ranks of the Veteran Firemen has found out just who sent him that bouquet?Why he demanded that the next donation of flowers be Millinery roses?If it was because there was too many sunflowers in the bouquet?If all the horsemen who handle the teams on the fast steeds are ready for the first brush on the play ground race track?If there will be as much speed there as in the lively stable offices and blacksmith shops?If the government has come to any decision as to what was the cause of the death of private Carlson of the marine corps on Water street?If the man who republicans have elected before to run for mayor will be in the contest this year?Where is all that Gaelic football we were to have this year?If the local club are planning to play the game on the north pond in January?If the bogus gas man who has been making good among the consumers at Concord and other places will give us a call?If the Italian band was not busy last night?What the new plans for a railroad bridge across the Piscataqua means?If the railroad has abandoned the idea of double tracking the Dover branch?How many applicants the mayor has for keeper of the swimming pool?If the job will be as attractive as the keepers job at the bath house used to be?

Court suffered a paralytic attack this Saturday morning and his condition is regarded as serious.CORPORAL NEWTON RELEASED FROM JAILBut He Is at Once Turned Over to Naval AuthoritiesCorporal George Newton, U. S. M.
C. who has been under arrest and confined in the Portsmouth jail in connection with the death of David H. Carlson, U. S. M. C., who was found with a broken neck outside the Assay house on Water street, several weeks ago, was today released by the county authorities.He was taken before Judge Thomas H. Simes and County Solicitor Ernest L. Gifford asked that the warrant on which Newton was held be not prossed.The request was granted and Newton was released from custody, but was immediately taken in custody by the naval authorities.It was learned today that the naval authorities are not fully satisfied that Carlson's death was accidental, and are still quietly investigating the affair in hopes of placing the blame where it belongs.Mrs. Newton, wife of Corporal Newton, left the city shortly after her husband's arrest and is said to be in Virginia at the present time. It is believed that she could have given the police some information as to her husband's movements on the night of Carlson's death, had she been detained.

OBITUARY.

Thomas H. Sheridan.

Thomas H. Sheridan, a native of this city and for many years employed at the navy yard, passed away this morning at his home on Jones Ave., Kittery, aged 61 years, 8 months and 9 days. Deceased was a man much esteemed by everybody that knew him. In every walk of life he was faithful. He was a member of the old school who always labored for the very best interest of those who employed him and his life was marked by his strictly honest dealings with his fellow men. His death causes much sorrow to a host of friends at the navy yard, Kittery and his native city. Those left to mourn his loss besides his wife are, one sister, Miss Annie Sheridan of this city, three brothers, John of Cambridge; James, of Somerville and Thomas, of Portsmouth.
